HIS CASE AGAINST LEOPOLD AND LOEB

Chicago.—The court room of John R. Caverly, chief justice of the criminal court of Cook county, was the center of interest in Chicago today. There it was that Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, scions of two of the city's wealthiest families faced the bar with the plea for mercy upon which are based their hopes of escaping the hangman's noose. But long before they came into court, the big granite cube which houses the community's trial courts, pros-

Chicago.—The kidnapping of 11-year-old Robert Franks by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, Jr., a pair of college commercial proposition, the abductors wrote in their first letter to the father of their victim.

The letter, read today in the opening of the hearing before Chief Justice John H. Caverly to determine the penalty the two college youths shall pay for the murder of a child, was written for the second time they affirmed today, their lawyers' plea of guilt.

Mrs. Jacob Franks, mother of the child, Nathan Leopold, and Loeb, took the witnesses stand late this afternoon.

Clad in modish attire of black with simple white trimmings, white gloves and small black turban hat, the grieving mother told in broken voice, of her son's last day at home, the circumstances of his disappearance, and of the feverish, almost delirious, efforts of her and her husband to regain the custody of their boy.

She sobbed, her voice quavered, and her eyes filled with tears as she was handed pieces of the hot chocolate for fortification.

Nathan Leopold, Jr., was pointed out in the court room today as the person who opened the door to the car.

Vermining. Where should he have been for a horrible crime or expiate their sins to society by passing all their mortal future behind prison bars.

Safe Wheeled in

Meantime, on the fifth floor of the court building a steel safe, containing the exhibits was being wheeled in. The information of the court was wheeled into the court room. Atop it was a bunch of boards, the blood stained flooring of the automobile in which the boys were killed. The safe was opened. What remained of the boys' clothing, a bed sheet and a few other bits of equally rare

Death of Child at Chippewa Falls Not Due to Injuries.

Manston—John J. Rummel, secretary of the board of directors today issued a statement setting forth the result of an investigation conducted as the result of the death of Leon Kripps, 14 years old, an inmate at the Northern Colony and Training school at Chippewa Falls, who died July 16. The death certificate shows death due

The board of control was advised that the parents of the child found bruised on the highway, and in addition to that they were not notified of his death until a day following.

Dr. Albert J. Bomer of the staff of the Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute, and Dr. Frank C. Richmond were sent to the hospital to see the boy and to complete legal formalities had not been complied with on Monday when the boy was charged with the crime. He pleaded guilty, but was summoned then to the bar and a long legal phraseology asked them to appear again separately if they realized the consequences of their action.

They do, replied Dr. Frank C. Richmond, and he was sent in this manner.

The questions were repeated for each of the crimes of which the boys have acknowledged, first, kidnapping for ransom, and second, murder.

The boys listened to the judge reading intently and answered in clear, firm voice in reaffirming their plea of guilty.

SPRAY RING WORK PLEASES FARMERS

Inspection Shows Properly Sprayed Orchards Free from Disease.

By C. L. KUHNER, Fruit Specialist, U. of W.

Two weeks of inspection of farm orchards in seven different counties show that clean fruit will be plentiful in nearly all well sprayed farm orchards. Furthermore, it is expected that all surplus fruit from these orchards will sell readily this fall. Both unsprayed and poorly sprayed orchards show a high percentage of apples spotted and crippled by scab and curculio. Many of these blemished apples have already dropped off and most of the remainder will drop off before the crop is ripe enough to be picked; thus lessens the crop, robs the home of a plentiful supply of apples for the winter and where away any possible income from the orchard.

This year, more so than for several years back, it has again been demonstrated that it pays to spray fruit trees—not only spray them but spray them thoroughly at the right time with the right materials. Every orchard which has been thoroughly sprayed with the right materials (one gallon of liquid lime sulphur, one pound arsenate of lead, to 40 gallons of water) at the right time, as per directions of the horticultural department of the college of agriculture, is at this time practically free from all blemishes and shows a clean, healthy, abundant foliage in contrast with the unsprayed orchards in which much damage has been done by scab, curculio, codling moth and canker worm.

Members of Wisconsin spray rings in every county are well pleased with the results of spraying and are confident that their surplus apples will be in demand this fall, as only sprayed orchards will be able to sell any considerable amount of clean apples for fall and winter use.

All orchards will be sprayed again some time in August to keep the apples clean and to control the "red worm" or the second brood of the codling moth.

Timely notices will be given in your local papers as to the date of this spray.

SHOOTS HIS FATHER AFTER A QUARREL

"Needle Beer" Starts Fight Ending in Jail and Hospital.

Kenosha—After a night during which he was kept alive by transfusion of blood offered by members of his family, James Marshall, 47, who was shot by his son William Marshall, 20 on Tuesday night following a quarrel, was operated on at the Kenosha hospital this morning and his left leg amputated at a point 10 inches above the knee.

Amputation of the leg was held as the only possible way to save the life of Marshall. The victim of the shooting was very weak but physicians in attendance said they believed that he would survive his wounds.

Young Marshall in the city lock-up made no statement today other than to declare that he had shot his father because he was afraid of a beating.

Other members of the Marshall family were reticent and said that they knew nothing of the trouble between the father and son. The Marshalls have lived in Kenosha for many years and are widely known.

Police investigators claim that the real trouble was that the young Marshall had been drinking and "lost his head." Marshall appeared to be slightly under the influence of liquor following his arrest but he insisted that he had taken only two bottles of "needle beer." It was explained that "needle beer" is near beer which has been treated with ether.

Constable Miller made four arrests Tuesday, preferring a charge of driving while intoxicated against Andrew Lee of O'fordville, whom he arrested on the river road at 2:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Roy Gredivant, Janesville, was the only speeder arrested during the day.

POULTRY BREEDERS MEET IN MADISON

Seek Standardization of Hatchery Chicks—Two-Day Convention.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—The annual joint meeting of the Wisconsin State Poultry Breeders' association and the Wisconsin Accredited Hatchery association at the Wisconsin Agricultural college, here July 23 and 24, promises to be one of the most important meetings in the history of the association.

The hatchery association, at the present a loose organization of individual hatchery men, will probably incorporate under the laws of the state into a cooperative association. This will make possible a greater standardization in prices for young chicks, and will expedite the exchange of orders among the hatchery men.

To Improve Service
At present, due to the extreme perishability of young chicks, it is often difficult for hatchery to fill its orders. Due to inability to determine the demand, a hatchery often becomes loaded with one brand of chicks, while a neighboring chicken breeder has more of another brand than he can sell.

Through the cooperative association, orders will be received in the establishment of a central selling agency through which orders can be exchanged and the surplus stock here made possible for the farmer will result, it is claimed.

The association will also attempt to take definite action against the sales of diseased chicks by hatchery. It is accomplished, this will probably take the form of a blood test of breeding stock in hatcheries where disease is known to exist. Tests have been made at the College of Agriculture on chicks sent in by farmers which will determine the extent of disease among them.

List of Speakers
The only business of importance expected at the meeting of the Poultry Breeders' association is a revision of the constitution, those in charge of the meeting say.

Speakers at the two-day meeting include Dr. B. A. Beach, C. E. Jampan, J. G. Halpin and J. B. Hayes of the University of Wisconsin, H. M. Laddie, Wisconsin department of markets, Joe Mueller, Fort Atkinson; H. L. Kemper, Missouri College of Agriculture, and J. Holmes Martin, Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Locally elected officers of the Poultry Breeders' association who will be installed at the meeting are: W. H. Jabbs, Waupaca county, president; E. Hoffman, La Crosse county, first vice-president; O. V. Daniels, Waupaca county, second vice-president; and J. G. Halpin, Dane county, secretary-treasurer.

J. H. CITY SEEKS PLAN TO BATTLE DUST

Public Works Department Conducting Experiments to Bring About Relief.

Oil and water having proved impracticable for keeping down the dust on dirt streets being used as detours on account of paving, Street Engineer Joseph Lustig issued a statement Tuesday in which he declared that other experiments are being conducted with the hope of giving relief to citizens living on these streets.

"Dust complaints are numerous from the streets being used by the Hiram Paving company's trucks," said the statement. "This situation has been confronting the department of public works for some time and as yet no satisfactory manner of overcoming it has been found."

"To sprinkle the streets with water seems at first glance to be the logical thing to do. This was tried on several streets with the result that the street soon went to pieces and became rough from the continuous wettings and at best only gave an hour's relief. Furthermore, the department has only one street flusher or sprinkler which should be and is in constant use on the streets which are being wetted down after being scarified and torn up preparatory to rolling and oiling. To use this machine on the streets from which dust complaints are coming in would mean that the steam roller work would have to be suspended, for to keep the street wetted down would mean constant use of the street flusher for this purpose."

"To put oil on dirt streets is impractical, for oil will not adhere to dirt and soon picks up on the wheels with the result that after a day no trace of the oil can be found. This was demonstrated on Benton avenue, from which dust complaints were so numerous that to satisfy the residents the street was sprinkled with oil from Caroline to Milton avenue. On the dirt portion of the street from Caroline street to Prairie avenue, no trace of oil could be found 12 hours after the street had been treated. On the remainder of the street, which has a hard gravel surface, the oil has done some good."

"Benton avenue will be in constant use this summer by the contractor. Truck hauling from the Janesville Sand & Gravel company's pits will use Benton avenue and Glen street in delivering material to the paving work and it was in view of this fact that a strip of oil was applied down the center of these streets in order to give some relief to residents along same."

"Gravelled detour, will receive some attention either by the use of oil or calcium chloride which is being experimented with at the present time."

"Calcium chloride is sprinkled on the street in the form of a crystal and the nature of the chemical is such that it decomposes absorbing moisture from the air, thereby keeping the street moist and free from dust."

The Misses De Alton Thomas, Helen Dingham, Harriet Carl and Ruth Francis sold roses and Mrs. Blodgett and the Misses Carl and King sold balloons.

Another number that lent atmosphere to the program was the burlesque music with Mrs. William McNeil and Mrs. Blodgett, wheeling the organ and Ann McNeil and Bill McNeil, Jr., gathering in the penulose. PENSION BOARD REJECTS CLAIM

Petition of Fireman's Widow
Turned Down After Public Hearing.

The pension claim of Mrs. Tilly Truesdell, widow of George Truesdell, a former member of the fire department, was rejected by the firemen's pension board Tuesday night, when an adjourned meeting was held to consider the case.

Mrs. Truesdell, through her attorney, C. A. Enlow, claimed that her husband died as a result of pneumonia contracted at the Carlisle block fire in December, 1915.

Advocates from Dr. R. W. Eaden, Charles Carpenter and John W. Henry, submitted to the board for consideration July 15, were rejected. In rejecting the claim the board ruled that the evidence submitted did not justify any other action.

The following members of the board were present: City Manager Henry Traxler, City Clerk A. J. Olsen, Chief C. J. Murphy, Fireman E. Lichtner, Capt. D. W. Baxter and Capt. S. E. Fisher. The Truesdell claim involved several thousand dollars.

Lineman Hurt While Repairing Storm Damage

John Quinn, line foreman for the Janesville Electric company, broke his left arm when he fell from a pole while repairing storm damage.

The fall occurred at the intersection of the house during the storm Monday night and Quinn and John Condon were doing the work when the former fell. He was taken to his home and a X-ray examination was made Wednesday at Mercy hospital.

Although the company had 24 cases of trouble where transformers were burned out, no primary wires were down, practically all were in repair Wednesday. Mr. Schmidt reported.

The Wisconsin Telephone company will have its damage to wires and lines cleared up within a day or two, Elmer Huggins said Wednesday. But one pole was blown down. A crew will be sent to Darlington to repair damage done there by the storm, which will mean replacement of several poles.

C. D. Owen, Footville, arraigned on a similar charge, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Aug. 4, the same date fixed for hearing several other cases of the same nature. The charges were laid on July 15, when the concrete was laid to have occurred on July 15.

Charles E. Moore, county highway commissioner, is the complaining witness in all the cases. Variants have been sworn out for two more drivers who are expected to be in court by Thursday.

Loeb-Leopold Plea Disappoints Sightseeing Thousands

The guilty plea entered by Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., slayers of Robert Frank, with its promise of a swift ending to the trial, brought disappointment to thousands of Chicagoans who expected to gain entrance to the courtroom and see a terrific legal battle and long trial. This is a view of the enormous crowd which jammed the neighborhood of the courts building when the dramatic plea was made, and a view of Richard Loeb (right) entering the courtroom under guard.

Report of Today's Trial of Leopold and Loeb

Young Frank's was agreed upon. The defendants were styled "cold-blooded murderers," by Mr. Crowe.

Emancipated Defendants. Listening to the state's recital of the details of the crime, with apparent equanimity of spirit, the two defendants sat calmly in their chairs behind their counsel.

Frequently one would whisper to the other as various details of their crime were recited to the court. Leopold frequently sat with his mouth open for periods of 10 or 15 minutes during the recital.

Loeb, however, frequently admitted his guilt with his tongue and poked at specks on his sleeves. Jacob Frank, father of the slain boy, sat quietly behind his counsel, his face showing no emotion.

Nathan Leopold, Sr., father of one of the defendants, who is now in the custody of the state, was in the courtroom. He made no allusion to the subject matter of such evidence.

Coming to a dramatic recital of the first show of weakness by Loeb during his first questioning by State's Attorney Crowe, the prosecutor raised his voice and paced nervously before the bench.

He told of Loeb's excited cry for a glass of water after he was told that his companion had revealed their secret. "My God!" the youth cried. He then offered to tell the whole story.

The same strategy applied later to Leopold. Mr. Crowe said, produced a like reaction. "Each accused the other of being the actual murderer, and sought to save his own neck," the prosecutor shouted.

"In the name of the people of the state of Illinois and the parliament and childhood of the state, we demand the death penalty for both of these cold-blooded and vicious murderers," Mr. Crowe said, in concluding his statement.

Clarence Darrow, 67-year-old veteran of the Chicago bar, the chief defense counsel, immediately attacked the state's case.

Crowe objected to the tenor of Darrow's remarks and demanded a ruling from the court on whether it was proper to make such a personal attack on the state's case.

Darrow responded that Crowe had "ought to stir up feeling and passion in his talk."

The court ruled that Darrow should confine himself to objections and an opening statement.

First Witness Called. Edward M. Crowley, uncle of the slain boy, was the first witness called by the state. He told of identifying the body of his nephew.

Jacob Frank, wealthy father of the slain boy, was the next witness. Mr. Crowe then said Mrs. Frank would follow.

Those sitting in the work Tuesday were: Dr. R. C. Hartman, O. G. Woodson, C. S. McDaniel, Dr. J. Woodworth, sanitary inspector; Miss Hilda K. Andrews, visiting nurse; Councilman Mrs. Emma H. Manning, Miss Caroline Manning, Mrs. A. W. Woodworth, and Mrs. Florence Hewitt, matron at Detention hospital.

Eyes of the world are on Brazil. Why? Well, because 90 per cent of all the coffee we grind for the morning cup comes from Santos, in the very heart of the disaffected section of Brazil, now torn by revolution.

What do you know about Brazil? You can find out all about it by using the public library.

BRAZILIANS AND THEIR COUNTRY, by Clayton Sedgwick Cooper, is available at the library. Read it and be informed.

You Can't Keep a Good Man Down

He's bound to read the Employment columns of the Gazette A-B-C Classified Section.

He wouldn't be a very good man if he didn't try to get up in the world—and his attempts to climb will surely lead him around to these classified stepping stones to success.

In what other place can he find the city's best positions listed in alphabetical order for quick finding—and quick answering?

The Gazette's Help Wanted ads are the great cure-all for unemployment.

Nearly everybody knows that this is so. It hardly seems necessary to say that he who wants a good position is standing in his own light if he neglects the A-B-C Classified Section.

Chicago—Chick Evans, defending his title in the western amateur golf championship at Hinsdale, Wednesday, barely survived the first round, by defeating Bob White of Olympic Fields, one up. The champion was not in the best form making his first appearance in the tournament, as he did not have to qualify and was two down to his youthful opponent at the 12th hole.
